NATIONAL TICKET. For President in 1864:

GEN. GEO. B. McCLELLAN OF NEW JERSEY. For Vice-President GEORGE H. PENDLETON. OF OHIO.

RALLY! RALLY!!-

Meeting at Parke's Woods, near Gilman's irusted now? Point, at twelve o'clock next Siturday, the 17th inst.

There will also be a McClellen Ratification Meeting in this city, at the Courthouse, at eight o'clock in the evening of the same day.

No doubt the Lincoln party will labor diligently to make 't appear that the election had, which they precipitately lcs:, to a prolongation of the struggle. The real disunionists, whose interest it is, and whose passion it is to have a separate government, want Lincoln elected. We have the stories of deserters as to the disposition of the soldiers of the rebel armles; and such unreliable stuff is put forward to luftuence a great people. These disunionists were the ellics of the Lincoln party in 1860. They greatly preferred his election to that of Stephen A. Douglas. They prefer him now to a Democrat.

With the people it is very different. They never sectioned secession, never expected can return to the Government as citizens, not | sull and rold. as enlprits. Elect Lincoln and nothing remains but conquest and subjugation.

The people of the loyal States, we do not believe, can be deceived by any representations that can be made. They parade a dispatch from George N. Sanders. If that was so favorable to Democrats, why do they publish lt? It is to help them that they print it! Oblo thought buying substitutes was a good and circulate it. They, perhaps, forged it for business, and General Sherman's army was a the purpose; but if they did not, how did they good place to get them. So he started from get ht? How came the said George to send it home with a long list of names, each one so that they could get it, unless to help them? ogreeleg to pay different amounts for a negro George Sanders Is not a fool, and knows how for a su stitute. When he arrived at the front to adapt his means to his ends. Greeley has been hebnobling with George, and perhaps ficers, all of whom recommended him to the fixed up the arrangement that he was to send a dispatch so it could be intercepted, and used and stated the object of his visit to the Gam to ald Abraham Lincoin. Such stuff may guil simple Lincoluites, but that men of some groce and transportation for the same to could be deluded by it is passing strange. Every real disunionist in the country wants Lincoln elected. They preler him to McClellau here lu Keutucky, and It they vote at all, they will vote for him. McClellan will get nine-tenths of the men who desire a restoration of the Union here in this Sinte. The real disunionists will prafer the success of Lincoln, as they did in 1860, and for the same reason, They want every obstacle that can be thrown in the way of Union; and they believe that, with Lincoin at the helm, a Union of the States is impossible; that war upon his programme may divide, desolate and destray, but pover

Sensible people know just how the land lies on the whole sulject. They know that under Lincoln the people South have no ludu coment to abandon the rebellion; but every resess a ville, was fired upon, on Tuesday night, by a people can have to persevere. They can't ba deladed by the stories of disaffection from the rebellion in the South, about the total exhaus tion, &c. We bere heard all that until it sounds sheard. It is the old story. When a good reason is given Southern people to abandon the rebellion, wa may expect to hear of them acting on the resson, no: before. In the meantime, we shall be amused with sto ries of disaffection and the collapsing of the ebeilion until November. It is casy to forge such stories. Let every man look at the past and form his own judgment, without regard to such outgivings from Lincoln sources. The Abolitiouists have never appreciated the 18bellion. They have all along mistaken its power and lie resources. They don't compre hend the subject yet and never will, and hence their incompetency to deal with it. They had at the start a united North and more than half the South against the reballion. With any statesmanship or common sense the rebellion thus opposed ought long ago to have ended. But they have with wonderful ingenuity la-

all the advantages the Government had. They have spent three years of time, three Mr. Parker to open the door, whereupon he or four billions of dollars, and half a million of lives, and yet they tell us now, as they have told as all the while, that more men and more they got out of reach, however, ha killed a money will do the work; but it is just about finished as it has been for three years. With such means, managed with any wirdom, there would be no rebellion to day.

Yet this same party tell us that the rebels want McClellan elected. Who can do as well for them as Lincoln? They would be great fools If they hoped to get a better friend.

Who is most likely to be correct in their judgment as to what should be done to fearful of a discovery of his crime, drugged restore peace and Union? It is well known the body into an alley leading into the yard of that the dominant party, in 1800, foresaw the house, and placed it upon a pile of shavnothing of the consequences that have since lugs, to which he set fire, with the intention happened. Who now is lucaue enough to cay such a concession was not cheep, and that to prevent civil war it ought not to have been ad pted? With untiring zeal did the Democra's of the North and the people of the border States exert themselves to ward off the greatest calamity that ever befalls a nation. They appreciated the real danger; but the Republicans white mer, voted as follows: were blind-stone blind. Nothing could abow conduct of the dominant party. When war same, the same ignorance still prevailed. The rebellion was soon to be put down, and all be well. At every success and every defeat we have still the felse prophets in that same party. Now we are in the midst of a terrible con test, and the way to proceed is confidently pointed out by these same blunderers, who have blundered at every step. We shall soon compel an unconditional surrander. Just trust us, who have shown carnelyes u. A: to be trusted at every step in the past, but we will put down the ebelilon directly. They grow more and more impudent as they proceed, and at last all who reject their nostrum are traitors. Wouderful prescience theirs! They see the precise adaptation of means to ends, and tell us oracularly how they will succeed, notwithstanding their demonstrated ignorance in a'l the past. Never was a party so utterly bankrupt la eredlt in lts past record; yet they have as much assurance as if they had never een tried and found wanting.

LOCAVILLE KY, a greater lack of capacity than this infatuated

On the other hand, Il the wernings of Demerats had been hecded, there would have ecu no war and no disunion. Even after sccession had begun, if the Democrats of the North and border States had been listened to, the whole sfirly might long since have ended There will be a McClellan Ratification in peace and Union. Who, then, ought to be

> This is a nut for Chleago Copperheads and Northern traitors to crack," says the Union Prese; and what, reader, do you suppose it is that's to be cracked? Well, three negroes, soldiers of the Confederate semy, were captured somewhere. One of them is here, and there were two others in the same company.

That is earlly cracked, L'ucola and Davis are much alike; and Lincolu's party hold anyof McClellan is desired by the rebels, and that thing right if Davis & Co. have done it. They they fear the election of Lincoln. We have mutually admire each other; when one does a no don't that every Union man South wishes | mean thing the other repeats it. There is the McClellan elected. They tops it will afford an unt cracked, and the Press may digest the opportunity of a peaceable restoration of the kernel, provided, however, the fact is estab-Government. They are as tired of the war as lished. We don't allow negro testimony other people, and greatly prefer what they against white men. But it's all the same, When one side wants to do a mean thing, he can get an intelligent contraba ,d or deserter to say the other did so, and then it's all ri-bt.

Beward says, if McClellan is elected what will become of the country between the election and the time of his luanguration? That is a grave question. I: has been sur mised that in that event Lincoln will make haste to coknowledge the independence of the Confederacy. Seward says McClellan's election will demoralize the Union. That is reason suggested wby Lincoln should make the best terms he can to suit his party if he anch results as have hoppened. They hope to fails to be elected. LOUISVILLE, Ry., July 20, 1964. To Abraham Lincoln, President of the United

Sin: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter proposing to me a discharge from arrest, in many ware vexisions a 4 inconvenient, upon my signing a parole, a fereby I am to piedge my honor that I will elther directly or indirectly tend to hinder, delay, or emberrass the employment and use of colored persons as saiding, seamen, or o herwise, in the suppression of the rebelling, so long as the United States Government chooses so to employ and use them. It answer to this proposal, I have frankly to say that I cannot bargain for my liberty and the extreha of my rights as a freem non anyoneh terms. I have committed no crime, I have broken no law of my country or of my State, I have no two day military order or any of the meages of my country or of my State, I have no awon any military order or any of the meages of my country or of my State, I have no ayon pathy with the rebellion. All my sympathics are with and all my bopes are for my country. encon. Sement to the enemy. I have no sympathy with the rebellion. All my sympathics are with and all my hopes are for my country. are with and all my hopes are for my country.

The triumph of the national arms, the preservation of the Union, the maintenance of the Constitution, the resociation of the supremacy of the law over all the States, and the perpetuation of civil and religious liberty, are the objects most dear to my heart. I may say with out presumption that I have done more to enlist while men in the arms of the Libera then list white men in the army of the Union than my other man in the State of Kentucky.

I have done nothing to hinder the enlist-ment even of negroes, because I do not accoclase with them, and have no influence over them. You, Mr. President, if you will recuse the bluntness of a soldier, by an exercise of arbitrary power, have caused me to be arrested and held in confinement contrary to law-not for the ed of our common country, but to increase he chances of your election to the saidence and otherwise to erve the purposes of the political par y whose candidate you are; and now you ask me to stullify myself by signing a pledge whereby I shall virtually admit your right to street me, and virtually support you in deterring other men from criticising the olicy of your administration. Since you have taken my case to your own hands, Mr. President, let me seem to warrant; for, as my acts are the subject of accusation against me, so they are my sole definee. Whether or not they form a triumphant defence, you, sir, shall judge. On the 10th day of March, 1831, la the city of lexication, Kentucky, the Union men of Fayette cunty were pleased to present me with a very fine sword, a pair of valuable platols, and a pair of spurs. In response to an elequent presentation appeals, made by a learned divine, I delivered a Union appeach, the leading purpose of which was to peech, the leading purpose of which was to of cavalry, which I then had the honor it command, whose racks had been greatly thinned by heavy losses in battle—the divisfront for the purpose of recruiting, refittle and remounting. I made a long speech, bleb I fully discussed the wickedness of the b-llion, and contrasted the misery and des ottem of the so culed Southern Government with the harpiness and freedom of our own. In the course of the speech I spoke of your Abolition policy, and condemned P. But I in sisted that it was the duty of all good citizens to defend their country by fighting the rebel-lion, whether they approve the course pur-sued by the Administration or not. For the true character of this speech I refer you to the statements of M. C. Johnson, and others, which I inclose. The men whose names are subscribed thereto are men of the highest crer of intallect, and of the most elevated mar be found who would ever consure me for any thing sold in that speech, to issue an order

But your triends say I did not ask the negro to jour ms. It is true I did with neprecedented rapidity, and yet discouraging et instruents i But your friends any I did not ask the negro to jour me. It is true I did not. I told the people that I wanted whita men, brava men, and honest men, and that I would not receive, if I knew it, a negro, a cownard or a third, as I desired to associate with my men, and cit not wish to associate with negroes; as I desired to whip the rebels, and wanted brave men with whom to do it; as I dealred to cultivate good feelings between the citizens and the soldiers, and therefore wanted bouset men, who had a high appreciation of private rights, and who would remember that the dwelling of overy American citizen is sacreed—because it is the castle of a freeman's defense, and the home of a sovereign. In reto commence the canvass. We, the Union man of Kantney, chain as constitutional. cred—because it is the costle of a freeman's defense, and the home of a sovereign. In re-lation to existing sieves, I did say that I was carefully, and find in it this remarkable atste-ment: "By general law, life and limb must be protected, yet often a limb must be smputated to save a life; but a life is never wheely given to save a limb. I felt that measures otherwise anconstitutional might become lawfal by be-coming indispensable to the preservation of the Constitution through the preservation of the nation. Right or wrong, I assumed this ground, and now svow it." Unless I have been strangely misinstructed, Mr. President, the Constitution is not a limb attached to the the Constitution is not a limb attached to the Government, but is the life of the Government. In destroying it, you destroy the bond by which the Usion is held together, and take the life of the Government. The idea of an unconstitutional policy becoming necessary to preserve the Government and save the Constitution, is like the idea of killing a man to save his life, and keep him from dving of disease. log a man to save his life, and keep him from dying of diseare. You aunul the law to make the rebels obey it—disregard the Constitution to make them respect it—break your oath to keep from breaking it. The iramers of the Constitution surely never intended that a President should tamper with his solemn oath and that encred instrument in such a manuer. Again, you say: "I was, in my bost judgment, driven to the alternative of either surrendering the Union, and with it the Constitution, or of laying strong hand on the colored elespreal to your sense of justice and ask that tree distribution to have to say in my defense a caudid hearing, and then do what you shall see fit. And here I trust I shall he pardoned if I speak of myself somewhat more largely than the canons of good taste might seem to warrant; for, so my acts are the sub-level of the canonic of laying strong hand on the colored element to warrant; for, so my acts are the sub-level of the canonic of the hanating all the wisdom, strength, reconrecs, power and valor of the white man, you failed to save the Union—that, with two millions of sole bodied white men still in reserve you had to lorce the negroes to fight in order to save the country! If you do, Mr. President, what a compilment you pay to white men, in and out of the army. One newhite men, in and out of the army. One ne-gro, seconding to this doctrine, is worth in the army much more than a dezen white men. Do you believe it, sir? You claim a gain by this policy of one hundred and thirty thousand colored soldlers to the army. Would not two commend, whose racks had been greatly hundred thousand white men have done as thin the division having just count to Kentucky from the front for the purpose of recruiting, refitting writing down in one line that he is for subdulng the rebellion by force of arms, and in the wext that he is for taking three hundred and thirty thousand men from the Union side, and placing them where they would be but for the measure he condemns. I am that Union man, and thus I face the case: To place your one hundred and thirty thousand colored men where they would be but for the measure in question, would be to place most of them back into the corn-fields to raise supplies for our army, and to return the dier lighting his pipe and throwing the burnremainder of them to their legal owners, making them a monument of the justice, m gnanimity and good laith of our Government, being, as they would be, so many

The death of Park Benjamin has been anounced in our dispatches. He was born at Demerara, British Guiana, August 14th, 1809, his father, a New Englander by birth, being a resident of that place. He was at Trinity Colege, Hartford, practiced law for a time in Boston, and was afterward associated with Horace Greeley in the "New Yorker," and with Sargeant and Griswald in the "New World." The last of his life was principally spent in lecturing. His works, which are for the most part political, have never been collected.

"Lena" would not be opera has lately been played, which has pleased with another of the writers, whose the strange title of "Orang Outang." letter is before us, who thinks that he was laughed at the other evening on making his first appearance in society, at a large and fashionable party. Ile says: "I knew very it is a part of their duty to defile. little of the customs and habits of such an aristocratic gathering. I have been laughed at a great deal since, but for what I cannot imagine; so I will tell you, as far as I first Saint Peter, and then Saltpeter." remember, exactly what transpired during the evening, in the hope that you can tell me where the laugh comes in.'

"I entered the parlor, and was taken up and introduced to the lady of the house. Instead of just speaking one or two words and leaving, I remained a short time near her, when she quickly introduced me to a young lady by her side. Her introduction was made very quick, as if she wished to get rid Well, I invited the young lady to dance the first dance with me, which she did. We then promenaded until the next dance, which I also invited her to dance with me, which she dld, after which we commenced to promenade as before. I at last began to feel as if I were keeping her too long, as a great many in the room smiled every time they saw us pass; yet I was at a loss to know what to do, when, suddenly, the lady of the house brought another young lady up, and, introducing me, took number one away. By this time, I assure you, I felt so embarrassed I could hardly stand, and after say ing a few words to the young lady, I left her with her friends and came home.'

A great many young men on first going into society don't know what to do with their hands, but this young gentleman had a young lady put upon his hands and didn't know how to get rid of her. lle knew that he was retaining her company longer than either desired, but, unable to drop her in a graceful manner, he was compelled to remain until some klnd person relieved the young lady, and put him in additional embarrassment by placing another under his charge. Whether people were really laughing at him, as he says, may be very much doubted. "I know they were talking of me," says Snub, in the play, "for they laughed consumedly." And many a young man when in company has passed a gay groupe, almost unnerved by a shuddering nsciousness that he was the object of the mirth, when even the fact of his presence was not noticed. The young man whose letter is quoted above is the representative of a large class, whose ideas of their own importance are greatly beyond the general estimate of the community, and will only learn wisdom by increase of years, and an experience of their own weakness. Could it be any but a conceited puppy who would parade such a story as the following, and ask for advice upon it: "Ohio says that as he was 'going home' with a girl from singing school not long since, she remarked, in reply to an observation of his that he 'thought it was a resplendent night,' that she thought he was a resplendent goose. 'This remark,' says Ohio, 'touched me very nearly, and I asked her for an explanation, which she peremp-torily refused to vouchease, saying that she thought what she said was so plain that it required no explanation; and explain she would not, did not, and to this day has not.

Now, sir, what do you say to such conduct on her part? Would I not be warranted, under the circumstances in discount. under the circumstances, in discontinuing my visits to the young lady until such a time as she shall see fi: to explain the remark as to my being a re-plendent goose?

Advice upon etiquette and the minor morals is always pleasant to read, though seldom followed, and as it should be rather for exceptional cases than to meet the com-mon exigencies which all soon learn how to encounter, we select a few of the most extraordinary specimens of this species of counsel which we have noticed. Two ladies asked a gentleman the time; he, being busy, FURNISHING GOODS. told them to take out his watch themselves, and look, and they inquired if it would not be improper in them to do so. "Certainly, it would," is the reply.

Some young lady must have felt much relieved at being told by our moralist that a girl is under no obligation to answer letters addressed to her by strange men, whether they be in or out of the army."
The young men who remain at home will be pleased with the assurance that the soldier poys cannot set up an indisputable claim to the attentions of all the young ladies in the
